

Ted Sapoznik promoted to Atlanta to lead company's paper business

Ted Sapoznik, a 23-year veteran of Georgia-Pacific, has been appointed president of Georgia-Pacific's paper business.

Sapoznik, senior vice president - consumer products manufacturing - West, has assumed responsibility for the company's entire paper business. This includes the retail segment (Georgia-Pacific office papers) as well as the merchant paper business.

Sapoznik has relocated to Atlanta, where he reports to George Wurtz, executive vice president and president - pulp and paper. The appointment is subject to approval by the board of directors.

Mike Burandt, executive vice president and president - North American consumer products, said, "Ted Sapoznik is a dedicated leader who has built a solid record for managing tissue and paper assets in Crossett, Ark.; Camas, Wash.; Port Hudson, La.; and Wauna, Ore. I have every confidence that he will continue to build upon his record of success."
